What's it all about?

The fun day is an opportunity for local people to enjoy and connect through play and games from various eras. A great way to share stories of the past, and connect with other communities. There will be an opportunity to share your stories in a short film. A 'Suitcase Display' will be produced to be showcased at the Unity Hub, containing items donated by local people, representing their past. Please bring along an item from your childhood, share your story and be part of our 'Suitcase Display'. The item can be anything e.g. a toy, an old coin, clothing accessories, a game etc. In partnership with the Representing Hodge Hill study at the University of Birmingham, there will be craft drop-in sessions on the day and researchers will be available to record any stories or memories you would like to share.

We look forward to welcoming you!
